Help and Information

Welcome to BidLink! We've just completed a total overhaul of BidLink from the ground up, simplifying and adding new features. This help file isn't intended as a full manual, but moreover highlighting some of the key features that are part of the new BidLink. This will help people accustomed to old BidLink to take full advantage of the new features. A series of help videos are being created to provide more detail into BidLink and how it's used.

Search for Anything

BidLink works just like Google™. You can type anything in "Search for anything" and BidLink will search hundreds of government databases looking for results. Try a stock number, part, company name, competitor's CAGE code, APL, item name, solicitation or contract. Try anything to see what BidLink knows.

You now have the ability to control how the NSN display looks. Clicking the cog in the upper right hand corner of the screen and selecting Customize NSN lookup brings up the customization screen.

This screen shows the data sets BidLink has relating to stock numbers. The switches on the left allow you to enable or disable sections of the NSN display. This way you can deactivate sections you don't need, reducing the clutter on your screen. When you're done customizing your display, click save.

The top of the NSN display has a special section called the NSN Summary. As you are looking at stock numbers, there are certain key pieces of information that you will routinely seek. Instead of having to scroll all the way down the NSN display to find them, certain key data points can be put right at the top of the NSN display. Clicking the cog in the NSN Summary box opens the NSN Summary customization.

Customize NSN Summary

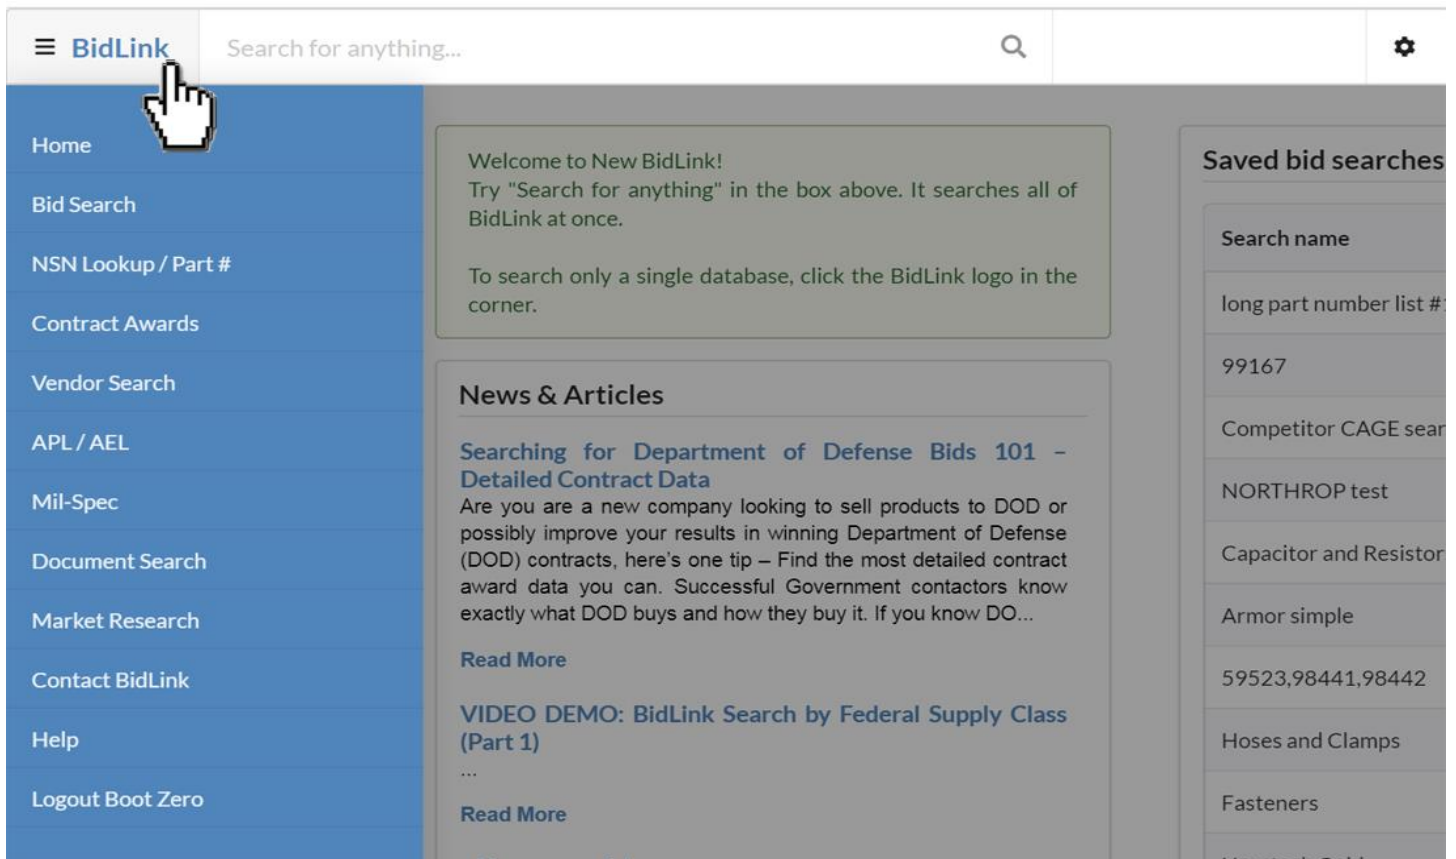

Here you can enable and reorder the NSN summary just like you did with the NSN display sections. Since people are often looking at specific technical characteristics repeatedly, you can specify up to three technical characteristics that will be shown right at the top of the NSN display (assuming that NSN has that particular technical characteristic). This saves you from having to scan through potentially hundreds of characteristics for the few that are important to you.

Side-out menu

You can do almost everything using Search for Anything, but sometimes you want to run a specific search on just one database. Clicking the BidLink logo in the upper left hand corner of the screen pulls out the menu.

Contract Awards

BidLink has procurement history from many sources so you can have the most complete view of sales activity. Sometimes a company may have no history with DLA, but have a series of large contracts with TACOM. Some companies primarily sell through GSA, or buy using credit cards.

The Contract Award display is broken into five sections:

- Procurement History Line Items – Sources that provide line item data consisting primarily of DLA, Navy & Marines, and Air force.
- GSA, BPA, Catalog Sales and Micro Purchases – GSA Schedule sales, blanket purchase agreement buys, catalog sales and credit card transactions.
- Federal Contract Award Data – FPDS contract data. This includes sources that do not provide line item data, but do include a total contract value.
- Legacy DOD Contracts – Before DLA created DIBBS, contracts were delivered through a legacy system up until 2006. BidLink has these legacy contracts.
- SAM / FedBizOpps Awards – Contract history delivered through the SAM system, formally Fed Biz Opps.

Original signed contracts

BidLink is the only company that has been collecting the original signed contracts for as long as they have been offered online. This database of over 20 Million documents provides detail into what the government purchased and where it was shipped. Not all sources provide original contracts, but most of them do. If the contract number is highlighted in blue, you can click it to see the original contract.
